Sasayaki had come to enlist the aid of an old burnt out Guardia. Dressed in a uniform she had not earn, armed with knowledge of the Guardia that she shouldn't have, and totting a mostly dead Shaddaow behind her she showed up at an old hermit's ranch begging for help.

Before the day was out, she had lost her royal decorum and dropped to her knees... sucked him off. An act that no sane commoner would attempt with a Guardia, for their essence is poison to anyone not fit to become a Guardia themselves, a qualification both rare and impossible to determine quickly. Still she had attempted to draw out his last reserves and cast it to the Shaddaow near oblivion...

Complex as she was beautiful, clearly she wanted something personal from the Guardia and his Shaddaow...

Shaddaow

Although the Shaddaow do not age just as their Guardia masters are forever locked in the moment they became such, they do wear out and die. It may take 10 years or a thousand, but eventually they turn to stone and are no more. When this time is near, they travel to the Sanctuary, a place of rest for the Shaddaow provided by the Guardia where their statues will be forever protected. A place where they may rest in peace.

However, whispers and fantastic rumor suggest that they may live on even after the petrifaction, trapped in a stone hell no longer able to touch their beloved Guardia partners.

Good Intentions

As one world fell after another, lives were prioritized over sustainability. Soon the untouched worlds became over burdened by the weight of the refugees fleeing the Loci swarms. Without the resources with which to feed this population explosion, almost as many people starved to death as were killed by the Loci themselves…

A few bread basket worlds were designated, where the population was severely restricted in favor of food production.

New Eden was one such world.

Abomination

The method in which Guardia grow their ranks nearly qualifies them to be a sub-species of Manykind all on their own. Guardia are unable to have children in the traditional fashion, even with partners of previously compatible genetic makeup. They are in essence, sterilized when they become Guardia. While the traits that qualify an individual can be found in most of the other races, the particulars of how they "Reproduce" affords them the luxury of being selective about what individual traits and dispositions are allowed to become one of them.

Royalty

One of the more romantic consequences of manykind spreading back out into the galaxy was that specific family power bases began to emerge. Genetic cold war was waged.

This gave rise to pure Monarchies reemerging as the most common form of planetary government. Four houses rose to dominate the galactic political landscape, Kireina, Chosinsei, Yosei, and Zenshin.

Even after the Loci devoured 95% of the galaxies habitable worlds, Most hold territorial power bases to this day.

Frustration

The relationship between master and student in the Guardia is oft compared to that of the Ancient Greek Erastes and Eromenos. The elder will tutor the younger in Piloting, politics, advanced mathematics, engineering, diplomacy, etc. A deep bond where both rely on the other is formed with only toward the mature stage of the relationship becoming truly sexual in nature.

Very… very… sexual.
The Guardia are 80% female. Applicants are 95% male. I think we don't need to explain that.

They said she was the key to stopping the Loci Swarm.
what... no... that... that old man wanted to know about her too.
In this, I believe he ment well.
Why would I tell YOU?
Patreon.com/HikariComics

Because I am Sasayaki. First princess of the house Chosinsei. High priestess. Now impure!
We recieved no permission to remove you from the temple!
We sullied ourselves upon your unworthy hero!
We cannot go back. We would be executed... if we were lucky.
We had to choose, stay part of an empty hell of a cult or hope, just HOPE! that we could save each other.

Power

Being mostly young and female, the Shaddaow are deceptively dangerous. Toxic amounts of Mystik flow through their re-animated bodies. When the need arises that power can be channeled into mutating their bodies to enhance strength, agility, vision, and even grow razor sharp blades.

They do run the risk of running out of Mystik, which would leave them vulnerable and close to death. They excel at hand to hand combat and can be found acting as body guards for their ironically named Guardia.

Ritualistic Action

There are many strange rituals among the Guardia and those they surround themselves with. It's a little known fact that Shaddaow remove one finger from each hand and gift it to the first Akumba their Xennin take..

Also readers can be very gullible.

From the Author:

Firstly I'd very much like to thank YOU for taking the time to read my work. This is a labor of love that's been percolating in the old brain-hole for many many years. Hikari is a world that's been part of me going all the way back to serving in the US Coast Guard and being able to begin to share it, even in a purely amature fashon, has been nothing but rewarding.

I'd like to thank Mr. CSBond2 for being my editor and all around "Artistic Bouncy-Wall". He's a fantastic artist and you should defiantly check out his work on F95... soon as you finish reading Hikari!

That said, at no point did I make, or attempt to make money off this work. Please pirate the hell out of it. This is a world most dear to me and this book only represents the third entry in the first chapter of a saga I have story boarded out for at least four more multi-book chapters, with a universe bible that I sleep with under my pillow. That's not wierd. It's not. It's also a metaphor. I hope to be able to fully share all of this with you.
